CRS Data Extends Contract with Tucson Association of REALTORS®

3-year Agreement Connects Agents with Reliable Property Data

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. – July 21, 2014 – CRS Data, a leading provider of public record information for real estate, banker and financial professionals in the U.S., has extended its agreement with the Tucson Association of REALTORS® to continue connecting the leading MLS with CRS Data's extensive property tax data. As the largest trade association in Southern Arizona, 4,800 members leverage CRS Data's customized real estate property information to service their clients.

"Because of our long-term satisfaction with CRS Data's customer service and dedication to producing the most thorough and diverse property data product, we are very pleased to be signing on for another three years," said Philip Tedesco, CEO of the Tucson Association of REALTORS® Multiple Listing Service. "With CRS Data's extensive property data, our agent members are able to access a wealth of information to help their clients make a confident home purchase decision. That's absolutely invaluable as our population grows and we have the opportunity to create more homeowners."

The extended 3-year contract will allow CRS Data to continue supplying its rich supply of property data, including access to current sales information, including FSBOs; data on property neighborhoods; schools; subdivisions and even flood conditions.

“As CRS Data continues to grow, we fundamentally believe in the importance of staying true to our roots, including our dedication to customer service and smart, timely data,” said Rob Williamson, director of sales for CRS Data. “The decision by the Tucson Association of REALTORS to extend their agreement with our team is an important part of our work in the region. We look forward to continuing to meet their evolving and unique member needs.”

The Tucson Association of REALTORS® was established in 1921 as the Real Estate Board of Tucson. The association supports the healthy growth of Southern Arizona's real estate market and their team of real estate experts are dedicated to improving communities throughout the city. The Tucson Association of REALTORS® defends private property rights, promotes a positive regulatory climate and elevates the professionalism and public perception of its members.
